Rev. Wolfgang is a visiting consultant to Lutheran churches in the region. He was teaching at seminaries and leading congregations in Germany, Asia and Papua New Guinea. His aim is to make aware how theological thinking influences the approach and routine of pastors, and how important a sound theological foundation is for a meaningful practice in ministry.

Course Description:

Every week pastors and worship-leaders are preaching and leading worship in their respective congregations. The service on Sunday is the highlight of the week for the whole congregation: it is to nurture the faith of the individual Christian and to strengthen the fellowship within a congregation. Occasional services like weddings or funerals have an impact beyond the Christian community.

Every public service is the invitation for hearing the Gospel, and a sort of a “show-case” of the local congregation for visitors to come. It is essential to understand the basic foundation of worship, the particular elements of liturgy and the general structure of the Christian order of service. This allows pastors and worship leaders to vary the order according to the church season and to adapt it to the needs of the local congregation. Such a flexible access facilitates the inclusion of contemporary and creative elements that make corporate worship meaningful, reaching out and relevant for people today.
